

GET TESTED FOR STIs BECAUSE SLEEPING WITH ONE PERSON IS SLEEPING WITH MANY.

Sexually transmissible infections (STIs), such as chlamydia, gonorrhoea and herpes are on the rise among young people. Because there are often no symptoms, you can never be sure who has one, meaning they can be easily spread between partners. If STIs are left untreated, they can affect your health and your sex life. Genital herpes can cause painful ulcers and chlamydia can lead to infertility. Fortunately, in many cases, a test for an STI is a simple urine sample and treatment is a short course of antibiotics. So use condoms and get tested when you start a new relationship. Because when it comes to STIs, sleeping with one person is sleeping with many.
