

ABORIGINAL HEALTH WORKER

CERVICAL SCREENING TRAINING

Commencing in March 2023, Family Planning Australia is delivering free cervical screening training for Aboriginal Health Workers across NSW

This training aims to:

- provide Aboriginal Health Workers with an overview of sexual health and reproductive anatomy
- provide Aboriginal Health Workers with an update on cervical screening including changes to self-collection
- build the capacity of Aboriginal Health Workers to communicate key information to Aboriginal women within their communities regarding cervical screening

To register your interest for the training, please contact the Family Planning Australia Health Promotion team:
healthpromotion@fpnsw.org.au

family planning australia

Reproductive & Sexual Health

Proudly supported by

Cancer Institute NSW