About us

We are called Family Planning NSW. We are a health service.

We work to make sure everyone has good sexual health.

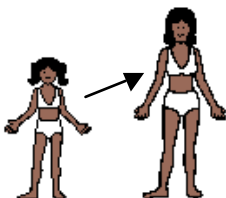

Sexual health is about

- feeling good about yourself

- good relationships

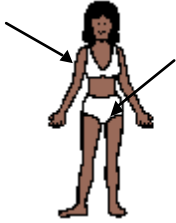

- changes that happen as you grow older

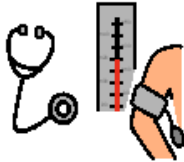

- safe sex

- planning to have children

- private body parts

- seeing a doctor to stay well

About lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex people

Some women are attracted to other women.
They are called lesbian.

Some women live together in a close relationship such as a girlfriend, partner or wife.

Some men are attracted to other men. They are called gay.

Some men live together in a close relationship such as a boyfriend, partner or husband.

Some people are attracted to men and women.
They are called bisexual.

Some bisexual people live together in a close relationship such as a boyfriend or girlfriend, husband or wife, or partner.

Some people are born as a boy but want to be a woman. Some people are born as a girl but want to be a man. They are called transgender.

Some people are born with a body that has male and female parts. They are called intersex.

The rainbow flag is used to represent the lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex community.

About Outing Disability

Outing Disability is a photo exhibition.

It is about showing that it is OK for people with disability to be

- lesbian
- gay
- bisexual
- transgender
- intersex

26 people with disability had their photo taken.

Belinda Mason took the photos for the exhibition.

She has done photo exhibitions all over the world.

Why we are doing the exhibition

Some people with disability are lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender or intersex.

Some have good lives but some do not.

Some lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex people have bad things happen to them

- they get called names
- they feel bad about themselves

- they do not know who to talk to
- they feel lonely

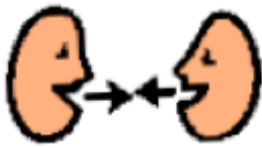

- they would like a boyfriend or girlfriend but don't have one
- they may feel sad about all these things

They might not tell anyone that they are lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender or intersex.

They are scared they will get in trouble.

The Outing Disability exhibition will help people to talk about these things.

It is one way to make things better for people with disability who are lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex.
